

Ways to Get Involved with NJSOPHE!

Whether you are a new, present or past member of NJSOPHE, the work done by committees is very important. If you presently are not on a committee, descriptions are provided below to help you choose a committee of interest. Helping out can be as big or as small as you like!

Advocacy: Advocate and educate about the latest health issues! If you want experience in writing talking points and position papers or attending the annual Advocacy Summit, then this committee is for you!

Awards/Scholarships: Do you know a health educator or a health education student who deserves to be recognized for their work? If so, nominate your colleague for one of the NJSOPHE awards or scholarships.

Continuing Education: Continuing Education Committee members' main functions are to review continuing education applications, and provide feedback and credit hour recommendations. No face-to-face meetings are required, all communication is conducted electronically.

Job Bank: If you know of an available job for a qualified health educator, please let us know!

Membership: We are always looking for new members to join! If you are interested in helping to grow NJSOPHE's membership by actively recruiting your friends/colleagues, employer, students, and professors to join NJSOPHE then join the membership committee.

Program: NJSOPHE-sponsored programs and annual/mid-year conferences are key ways that we reach out to members and provide them with continuing education credits. If you possess good organizational skills, have a flair for event planning and want to assist with a particular program, the program committee is for you!

Strategic Planning: Help steer the sails of NJSOPHE in a new and exciting direction! As part of this team, you can help promote the plan to the general membership, assist in tracking achievement of plan objectives, document activities for reporting purposes, review and update the plan periodically with committee members and contribute ideas for successfully implementing plan objectives.

Student and New Professionals: Are you a student studying health education or public health? Did you just enter the workforce in health education and are looking for networking opportunities? Join this committee for budding health education professionals and help grow your skills and your network while contributing to the function of the whole NJ Chapter.

Technology: The Technology Chair invites anyone with the following to join:

1. A computer
2. Basic knowledge of list serves and/or website design and
3. A creative mind
